

The moment you enter this home from the covered courtyard, an overwhelming sense of spaciousness, protected by a "CANOPY", truly satisfies our desire for space and freedom. Generously proportioned rooms and vaulted ceilings create this large space for entertaining ease. A beautifully sculptured wall, reminiscent of the romantic and picturesque past, separates elements of this large space.

That wonderfully refreshing sense of openness is not lost here, as strategically located planters overflowing with plantlife are brought indoors and large protected areas of glass are opened up to create the feeling of indoor/outdoor living under this "CANOPY". All this, combined with a fireplace and wet bar, give us a warm, conversational sanctuary to escape from the daily grind.

In contrast to the openness of the living areas, the master bedroom provides you with a cozy retreat to a warm fireplace and luxurious garden bath: Part of that unique southwestern experience.

And though we have tried to create that special historical touch, we have not forgotten efficiency. The bedrooms are each directly accessible to a large bath, the kitchen is very functional, and the powder and utility rooms reflect the efficient use of space. The result; a home filled with historical tradition and modern convenience.

Add the benefits of an energy efficiency management system, included in all our homes, and the result is a home so well suited to the southwestern lifestyle, you'll revel in your new freedom-found home.
