

This home was designed as a hearty retreat for you and your close friends. The individual or couple will find the informal definition of space a contributing factor in easy entertaining.

The main focus is the "KIVA", an octagonal shaped sitting area, which provides an easy place to relax with the cozy comfort of a crackling fire. Southwestern culture could be part of these fireside chats inspired by four columns accentuating the outer circle of the "KIVA"

Completely open, the "KIVA" flows with the living and family areas, with a centrally located kitchen. In addition, you'll enjoy summer fun with easy access to the enclosed patio and a refreshing dip to cool the Arizona sun.

When the party is over, retreat to the master suite with a central fireplace to be enjoyed from the sitting area or the bedroom. The raised master bath is accented with two columns to further heighten your awareness of the history everpresent in the southwest.

Designed for informal entertaining and relaxing family living, this home is to be enjoyed alone, with family, and most especially, with close friends.
